MOODY AND SANKEY OPEN T! AR SERIES OF MEETINGS. .

Cumberland Presbyterian Church Filled to Overflowing Last Night.

Through a waste of snow, over slippery pavements and in the face of a cutting wind a multitude of people of all ages and conditions in life tramped last night to the Court street Presbyterian church, drawn thither by the world-wide fame of the evangelists, Moody and Sankey. For a week or more the valious religious congrega-tions of the city have been thinking of, talking about and wishing for their arrival. Thousands outside of the pale of the church displayed an anxiety almost equal to theirs, curious to see and to hear two men who have been a lower in their pscul'ar aphere all over England and America. Cumberland church on Court street, the largest building, in the city comfortably which could be warmed, was secured, its capacity be ing about 18 0, but even that, it was found, would be too small to accom-no late the immense crowds which were likely to assemble, and in order that the number enjoying the advantages of a seat at one meeting at least might be as large as possible, a system of distributing tekets was aco ted, no more being given cut for any one meeting than the church would accommodate. *In order to se-cure a seat, however, to ders of for service to beain.

The evangel sts arrived from Nashwille yesterday afternoon, going at once to the Gayoso in company with a number of ministers and other earnest workers in the church, who waited at the depot until the train came in to receive them. Long before the hour for their first service, which was announced to begin at 7: 0, a stream · f people began pouring into the church, which was soon filed to overflowing. Hundreds stood about the doors, unable to obtain seats, during the entire service. The music of the grand organ, one of the largest in the South, supplemented by the swelling volume of sound from choir composed of nearly all the church singers of the city, grandly opened the exercises, but the mel dy of their combined voices, exquisits as it was, faded out of the memory and was forgotten with almost the first note sung by the evangelist, Sankey. His worderfully awest voice, trained to its work, had a deep effect upon his audience. Rising at times almost to a point of wildness, swelling like the tones of the grand organ, it died away again and again, steeling its way in o ences of a fond mother's lullaby to the babe upon her bosom. In the mel-ody of his voice all else was forgotten and when the art note died away it found echo in a sigh from the sudience. To the evangelist, Moody, whose address last d quite an hour, the deepest at ention was paid, the house, when he appeared to will it so, becoming uncomfortably still—awful in its silence. It was plain, however, that the audience, composed almost entirely of Southern people, and accustomed to warm and impassioned eloquence in the pulpit, were disappointed, and that while contenting themselves with what there was in each sentence the speaker uttered, waited expectantly for something better, something which as highly as possible of him. Mr. Moody spoke rapidly, in a conversa-tional tone, his voice falling out an to a whisper and occasionally rising sud-denly to the hignest pitch. He never hest ited for a word, though he used few outside of the vocabulary of the every day business man. The art of turning line periods or of peroration he did not seem to understand, or, if he did, made no use of it. Thou he his language was simple to primitiveness, some of his sentences were involved and his manipulation obscurrents.

volved and his meaning often obscure. The object of the present meetings, he said, was to try and stimulate the churches. They had been holding the fort, had been on the defensive for too long, and it was necessary now that God's army should sally forth and advance apon the enemy of mankind. "To-night," he continued, "I went to call your attention to the word of God. When Jesus Christ came upon eartu he had a mission. If you sak almost now child what that mission was he will tell you it was to save sinners. Our mission is to honor the Holy Ghort Gabriel might come down here and preach five hours, and if the Holy Ghost had not been here he could a complish nothing. We want first to fill this house with the spirit. The man that has not the power to do that can hope to do nothing. The Holy Ghost is not needed for everything. When a man gets drunk and beats his is he well knows when he is sober that he has done wrong without the Holy Ghost. We must believe with all our hearts, and belief comes somet mes in spite of resistance. man to get up from a revival and go out stamping his feet and slamming doors is a good sign. It shows he is about to be convinced in spite of himself. Then if we find one who is willing to part with sin we must next impart to him the power to love—to love the man who lies about him, to love his work enemy. To do that man must be born again. Imp'ant love in the hearts of the peo-Imp aut fore in the hearts of the peo-ple of this generous court y and sec-tional lines will disappear fast enough. There will be no raying 'you Yankee' and 'you rebel.' To have a heart full of love is to possess the holy spirit and to have a heart full of hope. The possession of such a right is necessary to impart lyes and stirit is necessary to impart love and faith to others. Let a minister who has lost hope get into this pulpit and preach and it will so into every pew. and men and women will sit list-less and go away with languid steps, bowed and weary to their hemes If God tells a man to deliver a message he wants him to do it straight, as he gave it to him. But if you doubt that the message is being delivered correctly don't be in too great a hurry to say so. The fault may be in you. Gabriel himself couldn't come down here and preach to any purpose if you were all criti-cising him and doubting him. One man says he likes preacher who can sermonize; who can begin with firstly, then go on to secondly, thirdly, fourthly and so on. One wants a preacher to preach to his heart, another to his mind. So, between them, they pick his sermon all to pieces. The Holy Ghost never speaks of himself, but always of the absent one. The famous sermon of Peter was no more powerful, I will venture to say, than those you hear every day in this very pulpit. But it had a wonderful effect. It was the power of the Holy Ghost. We want more religion pure and simple, and less seeking af er out-side signs and visions. More heresy enters a that door than any other. Mr. Mcoly went on to speak of the reling of the stone away from the sepulcher, and what a powerful argu-ment that gave the Christian worker. Though it was long afterward, he said; before the Gospel was committed to paper the air was filed with the words of Jesus Christ, and the Holy Ghost collected them and spread them out before humanity. "The courches," Mr. Mcoly said, "are crowded with young men and women who are not pious. Nineteen out of twenty of those who are members of churches to-day are unfit for the service of God After having been professors of rethe performance of their duties as Christians, and cannot lead a sinner in the way he should go. There has never been a period when the church of God needs power as much as it does now. When you see satan drag-ging your fors and your daughters down to perdition, making happy homes desolite all over the land, it is time to be up and doing. I want to see the members of churches red ho 365 days in the year, going on forever in the work of God, flowing steedily like the great river yonder towards its gen'. Every child should be an artesian well of happiness and piety, bub-bling and overflowing with the grace of God. Christ said, "Blessed are they that hunger of er rights ousness, I st what heaven's measure is? It is piled up, shaken and packed down and piled up again. There is no room piled up again. There is no room then kf. for the devil.

The man who is not faithful to all the relations of life is not fit for Gcd's tickets were expected to present them work. The church is we fally deficient at least ten minutes before the time in its appreciation of that fact. The work. The church is we fally deficient use of money and argument will avail nothing in advancing the cause of Carist. There is money or intellect enough in the world to convert one soul. The church is on a low place because it doss not look for great things. What we want is great expectations. Pray God to report Pensecost. We must preach Christ. The apostles were told when they were relieved from prison that they would not be not sted if they did not preach Christ. Their jallers knew if they deprived them of the power of Jesus's name they could do nothing. And, my friends, you must not think that one conversion in a lifetime is enough. Simply because you were fu'l of the spirit five you s ago is no reason why you should not open your arms to thow. It is no sign you are full tenight. You must keep going, keep progressing, keep full. I am more anxious about the church than the world. Let us not say we wish some one else would get religion; let us get it ourselves. If it is power you want, keep your eyes al-ways on the Master. I want you all to pray that I may have power, and I shall pray for it mys lf.

After the conclusion of Mr. Moody's address about ba'f the audience departed, the remainder staying to take part in the exercises of song and prayer which followed.

For the services to night a special musical programme has been pre-pored, Miss Marie Hitzfeld having been selected to take a leading part with Mr. Sankey.

Christian Spiritism and Mr. Moody,

To the Editors of the Appeal: Mr. Moidy, in his first address last evening, thought it advisable, when advocating the cause of Christ an spiritualism, to include in one univer-ral sneer all the e who, under the name of Spiritualists, advocate the necessity of an experimental inquiry into the fact of the existence of mind in nature. Was this wise? He demand-Is it not not natural to suppose the Lord may reveal Himse i in tuese latter days through the advances of 1 a'ural knowledge as in the past he did through human faith? If Mr. Moody were wise he would let Spiritualism, the main pi lar of the New Testament, alone, if not prepared to treat the subalone, if not prepared ject fully and impartially, SPIRITIST.

A BOUGH EXPERIENCE WITH AN AMATEUR HIGHWATHEN.

A Black Vagrant's Scheme to Furnish Himself With Clothing -His Capture.

A specimen of the genus tramp who embarked in the highwayman line night before last is laid up for repairs. He posted himself on the corner of Fourth and Jefferson streets and as Mr. J. F. Elliott, who was returning home from the thester, approached him he stepped into the middle of the sidewalk, confronted him and manded his money. To this high-handed proceeding Mr. Elliot de-murred, and drawing his knife as quickly as possible put himself on the definative. The tamp sprang upon him without a mement's loss of time. They clinched and in the scuille which followed Mr. Elliott was wounded in the left aids just over the heart. The scoundrel made desperate effort to slay Mr. Elliott, the blade of his knile penetrating two coats, a vest and Mr. Elliott's under-clothing. Mr. Elliott resisted to such purpose that the highwayman was at last obliged to retreat with a severe cut on one side of his neck.

A BLACK TRAMP

And His Scheme for Scenring a Wardrobe. The eleekest epscimens with which the police have to deal are the colored vagrants, who have many resources and are always inventing some new scheme for living without work. About two weeks ago a plausible darky presented himself at the residence of Robert Church, and, telling his wife that Bob had received a wetting from a bose and wanted some dry clothes, he was given Bob's best suit and has kept out of the way of the police ever since.

Yesterday Capt. Lake complained to the police that he had been chiseled out of his Sunday suit in the same way. A darky, all out of breath, rang his front door-bell and told Mrs. Lake that her husband had been wet from top to toe, and wanted some dry clothes. It was a ruse which would have duped anybody in the world, and the darky's request was promptly compiled with. The police succeeded in arresting the thief, a darky named Gus Gillam, who was fixed for the winter. He had on part of both suits, and smiled a sickly smile when his attention was called to the fact. He had not a word to ray when the door was slammed upon him.
